Total Expense (TER): This ratio shows the charges, levies and fees relating to the management of the portfolio and is expressed as a percentage of the average net asset value of the portfolio, calculated over the period shown and annualised to the most recently completed quarter. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER should not be regarded as an indication of future TERs.

Transaction Costs (TC): This ratio shows the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the buying and selling of the fund's underlying assets. TC are a necessary cost in administering the fund and impacts fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER.

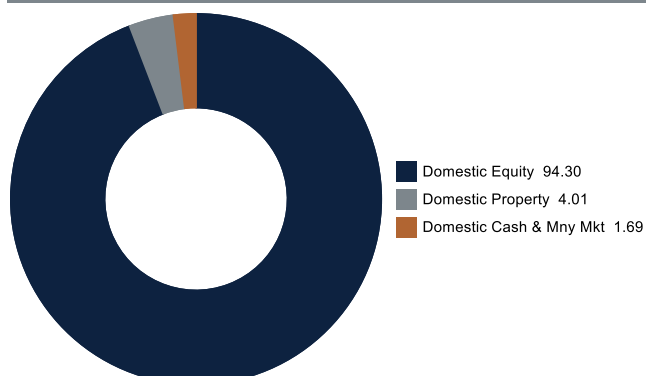

Total Investment Charges (TIC): This ratio is simply the sum of the TER and TC, showing the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the investment of the fund. It should be noted that performance figures account for all costs included in the TIC ratio, so you should not deduct the TIC from performance figures, the performance is already net of the TIC.

Fund review

During the fourth quarter of 2020, the fund returned 10.8% against the benchmark return of 11.5%. The main drivers of the returns came from the previously unloved South African shares which bounced off very depressed valuations after some positive news drove a risk on quarter.

The fund's best performing sectors were the property and financial sectors. Nepi Rockcastle, the fund's only property counter had a strong quarter, up 35% while some of the banks in the financial sector had a remarkable quarter. Capitec was up 37% and we took the opportunity to take some profits. Other notable performances came from Firstrand and Standard Bank, up 24% and 17% respectively. Strong contributions came from industrials, driven by Bidvest and Hudaco and consumer services which benefited from a 30% return from Mr Price. Basic materials contributed strongly primarily from the Anglo American holding which returned 19% for the quarter.

The only laggard was the healthcare sector where the holding in Netcare was slightly negative due to the sharp rise in the second wave of COVID-19, delaying the rebound in elective surgeries and procedures.

Market overview

Despite the second wave of COVID-19 cases, equity markets globally and domestically appear to be looking through the case numbers and focusing on the economic recovery post the pandemic induced lockdowns as the vaccine rollout commences. We remain cautious domestically as South Africa does not have any headroom for severe lockdowns and news flow on the vaccine rollout has been slow.

The US election outcome, although turbulent has been viewed as positive for emerging markets, which outperformed most developed markets in the final quarter of 2020 as the risk on trade began. The MSCI All Country World index returned 15% in USD for the fourth quarter against the MSCI Emerging Index return of 20% on a comparable basis.

If we compare South African equities to their emerging market peers, there could be some catch up moving into 2021 should the risk on trade continue given the underperformance in 2020. For the calendar year, the MSCI Emerging Index returned 18% in USD against the JSE Capped Swix Index return of -4.3% for the comparable period. The unwind has already started with the JSE Capped Swix delivering a return of 27% for the final quarter of 2020 in USD against the MSCI Emerging Index return of 20% for the last quarter measured in USD.

Should the risk on trade continue, we could expect to see domestic stocks continue their rally in the near term. We do however need to see the recovery in domestic earnings to make the rally sustainable given current valuations post the rebound in the last quarter of 2020.

Looking ahead

As we continue through company updates, we are finding that many of the high-quality businesses continue to print results that are better than forecast and show balance sheet resilience. Post the rally in domestic stocks in the last quarter of 2020, the focus turns to the earnings recovery to justify the rerating.

Moving into 2021, we expect more volatility. With the second wave growing at an alarming rate, we will need to use some lessons learnt in 2020 to navigate the year. The vaccine rollout is key to any domestic economic recovery. Large asset price movements do present opportunities and we are alert to these. Now, more than ever, stock selection and diversification are paramount.
