Portfolio Manager Commentary

Investor sentiment improved in July as the political noise was toned down to a degree, with markets gaining more clarity regarding future US trade and fiscal policy. The Trump administration announced several trade agreements, although the new tariff rates are significantly higher than the average rate prior to Trump's presidency, equity markets responded positively to the fact that the new deals reduce the risk of an escalating and indefinite trade war. The NASDAQ Composite index continued to lead global equity markets for the third consecutive month, delivering a return of 3.7% in US dollar (USD) terms.

Emerging market equities (MSCI EM) rose 1.9% in USD terms for the month, outperforming developed markets. China and Korea boosted the region with further support from price increases in iron and steel. Developed market equities (MSCI World) were resolute and delivered another positive return of 1.3% in USD terms. Global property (FTSE EPRA Nareit) ended the month negatively, down 1% in USD terms.

In fixed income markets, global government bond yields rose (yields move inversely to prices) amid continued unease over fiscal positions in advanced economies. As a result, global bonds (FTSE WGBI) delivered a negative return of 1.8% in USD terms for the month. The rand weakened against the USD and ended the month down 2.1%. This helped to offset some of the losses in rand terms, as the asset class delivered -0.1% in rand terms, ending the month virtually flat.

Local equities (FTSE/JSE Capped SWIX) outperformed their developed market peers and marginally lagged that of emerging markets, ending the month 2.2% higher. Resources performed strongly again in July, up 5.1% for the month. Listed property (ALPI) was a close second, delivering a solid return of 4.4% for the month. Financials followed suit, ending the month 1.8% higher with Industrials marginally up for the month, returning 1.2%.

Local bonds (FTSE/JSE ALBI) returned an impressive 2.7% for the month, 1.2% of that coming in the last two trading hours post the SARB's decision to lower its inflation target to 3% at the MPC meeting. Shorter-dated instruments in the one to 3-year and three to 7-year maturities ended the month 0.7% and 1.9% higher, respectively, while bonds in the seven to 12-year spectrum ended the month 3.0% higher. Bonds in the 12+ year spectrum delivered yet another consecutive positive return of 3.9%. Local cash (STeFI) continued to deliver inflation-beating returns, with a return of 0.6% for the month and 8% over the last year.

Investment Objective and Summary of Investment Policy

The portfolio is a low equity, multi-asset-class Fund of Funds with the objective of delivering a consistent real total return above inflation plus 2% a year, net of fees, over three-year rolling periods. It has a short- to medium-term investment horizon and, therefore, the aim is to maintain low exposure to growth asset classes (local and global equities and property). The remaining exposure is to asset classes that should preserve the purchasing power of the capital accumulated. A large emphasis is placed on capital preservation in the shorter term, which is achieved through diversification to defensive strategies and uncorrelated return profiles. The portfolio consists mainly of passive, enhanced passive and smart beta investment strategies, including global investments of up to 45%. The portfolio's equity exposure will range between 0% and 40% of the net asset value. Exposure limits are as per the ASISA fund classification structure. Investments to be included in the portfolio, apart from assets in liquid form, consist solely of participatory interests and other forms of participation of local and global collective investment schemes. The underlying portfolios to be included in the portfolio will be passive index trackers or make use of smart beta strategies which employ a rules-based index approach to investing to provide balanced, prudent low-cost exposure to the respective asset classes. In certain instances, portfolios which make use of active investment strategies will be included on a limited basis. The portfolio may from time to time invest in listed and unlisted financial instruments for the purpose of hedging exchange rate risk, in accordance with the provisions of the Act. The portfolio shall comply with the prudential investment guidelines.
