The South African economy grew by a disappointing 0.8% in 2024, below the population growth of 1.3%, a low growth trend that started in 2014, resulting in a significant decline in the per capita income over this period. This economic underperformance has been driven by policies focused on consumption and not on investment and growth, despite massive budget deficits of 5.0% and Debt to GDP of 76% for the last Fiscal year. With debt service cost making up 22 cents in every Rand of revenue collected by the Fiscus highlighting the magnitude of the problem. The lack of investment first showed up in the electricity sector before spreading to core logistics of rail and ports, water infrastructure and the collapse in municipal infrastructure. Operation Vulindlela started the reforms and leadership, to create the environment to enhance investment, has entered its second phase, prioritizing local government amongst others. The GNU has started to play an important part in reinforcing the reform and delivery process, however the fact that the unity has not entered the provincial and local government, and its fragility has been further exposed in the recent Budget fallout.

The trade war has reached South Africa's shores with a 30% tariff, deferred for 90 days, with a few exemptions for commodities, on SA exports to the US and the secondary effects of the tariff impacts on our largest trading partners. We anticipate that the economic impact on South African could be significant. Foreign investors sold a net R148bn of SA equities and bonds in the March quarter, the second highest quarterly outflow, highlighting the SA political and trade war risk. This high level of outflows continued in April. The Rand has weakened against all major currencies, reaching R19.75 to the US$ on 9 April 2025. The IMF outlook for South African GDP growth has reduced to 1.0% and 1.3% growth in 2025 and 2026 respectively. An expected bumper agricultural crop this year could assist in offsetting these growth concerns however the rainy season has brought its own challenges, too wet and the need for sunshine. South Africa needs wise and dynamic leadership in this difficult time.

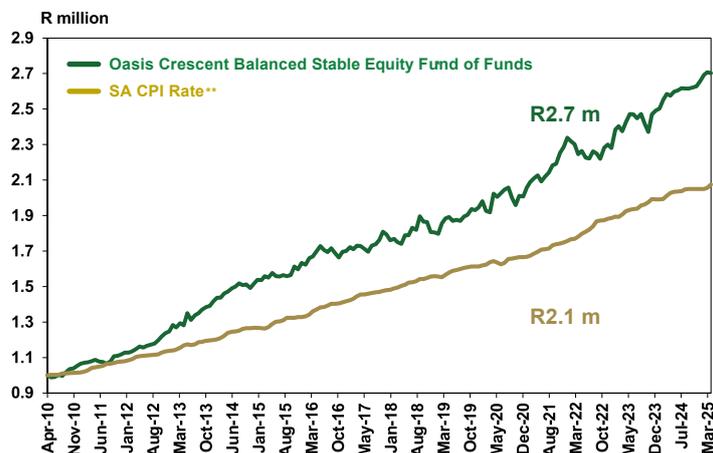

South African Equities performed well over the last 3 and 12 months with the TRR of the ALSI at 6% and 23%, respectively, based on improved sentiment driving the PE's of 14.8 (ALSI) and 15.0 (SWIX) up significantly from their lows of 9.6 and 10.4 respectively despite earnings being down by 8.2% and 9.2% respectively. The markets were boosted by domestically focused and gold shares and SA INC shares boosted by increased confidence from the GNU. Earnings growth is needed to support markets in 2025. The tariff wars and the GNU breakup are major risks to SA markets.

The SA listed Reits had a good 12-month performance with a TRR of 20.1%, but with a -4.3% lagged in the 3 months to March 2025, due to rising bond yields due to local and global uncertainties. With little new supply, vacancies have reduced, with industrial, retail, and coastal markets improving the most. The Cape Town property markets, with very strong demand and supply fundamentals has driven up rentals, to rates supporting new development, with vacant land being the key constraint.

SA bonds had a roller coaster but very strong year. The SA 10 year bond started the year at 11.5% before peaking at 12.5% in April 2024, ending 2024, at 10.3% and March 2025 at 10.6%. On 7 April the 10-year SA bond moved to 11.1% for a real Bond yield of 7.9%. The ALBI had a TRR of 20.1 % and 0.7% respectively for the year and quarter. Global central banks have started lowering policy rates, but appear to be hawkish due to rising risk and inflationary expectations, real rates ranging from 0,20% in EU, 2.1% in USA and 3.8% in China compared to 20 year average real rates of -0.91%, -0.77% and 1.44% respectively. If inflationary expectations rise due to the trade war, there is little scope to cut policy rates, except for China which has substantial scope to cut rates. The SARB started reducing interest rates, with rates being cut by 0,75%. The SARB has been conservative in its rate cutting due to elevated Global and SA risks. If this risk reduces, there is a substantial scope to cut rates, supported by high real rates of 4.8%.
