Total Investment Charges (TIC): This ratio is simply the sum of the TER and TC, showing the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the investment of the fund. It should be noted that performance figures account for all costs included in the TIC ratio, so you should not deduct the TIC from performance figures, the performance is already net of the TIC.

Commentary

Fund review

The fund performed in-line with the index over the quarter. The last quarterly review of the index saw no changes to the index. The fund benefited from its exposure to Investec PLC, Investec Ltd and Nedbank, which were the three top performers, with Investec PLC returning 26.38% over the quarter. However, its exposure to Anglo American Platinum, AngloGold Ashanti Ltd and Northam Platinum Ltd detracted from performance over the quarter, as these were the three worst performers in the fund. Anglo American Platinum returned -23.4% over the quarter.

Market overview

Global markets continued to advance over Q2 2021 on the back of positive global vaccine developments and rollout progress. During this quarter, the MSCI EMEA was up 6.2%, MSCI World was up 7.3% and MSCI EM was up 4.4%. All eyes were in the direction given by the FOMC with regards to inflation being persistent or transitory and the direction of long-term interest rates. The FOMC left rates unchanged in its June 16 meeting whilst the market bounced around interpreting their commentary. The global economy remains worried over the development of the Delta variant, which highlighted the global vaccine divide between Emerging and Developed Markets. In South Africa, the government continues to extend its vaccination program. Vaccinations have been opened to people aged 50+ and they have also introduced walk-in vaccination stations in an attempt to speed up vaccination efforts. On the 27th June 2021 the President introduced a country wide level 4 lockdown in response to a sharp increase in COVID infections. On the back of inflation remaining within range in the near term, the Monetary Policy Committee kept the repo rate unchanged over the quarter at 3.5% with an expected increase later in the year due to improved economic recovery. The Reserve Bank revised annual GDP growth expectations from 3.8% to 4.2% but revised downwards in its 2022 projections to 2.3% from 2.4%. The annual rate of inflation increased to 4.4% y/y in April 2021 from 3.2% y/y in March 2021, the bank expects headline consumer inflation to average 4.2% in 2021, up from 3.3% in 2020 and expect it to average 4.4% in 2022 and 4.5% in 2023. Local indices were mostly up over the quarter, including the Top 40 (-1.18%), All Share (-0.35%), the Capped SWIX ALSI (0.03%), ALBI (6.85%), and the STeFI (+0.92%).

Looking ahead

With the effective rollout of vaccines in developed countries such as US and UK, the global focus has moved from damage control via lockdowns to extending vaccination programs and easing social distancing restrictions. Europe and China have accelerated their vaccination attempts and will soon close the gap, whilst emerging markets have had mixed progress but generally lag the developed countries and will continue to focus on management of outbreaks until vaccine programmes pick up speed. A combination of increased vaccines, better management of COVID outbreaks, easing of lockdown restrictions and supporting monetary policy have led to better than expected global economic growth and will continue in the second half of the year. The increase in the growth has led to high inflation particularly in the US as supply fails to meet increasing demand which is fuelled by the significant stimulus package that was injected into the economy in the 1st half of the year. The Federal PCE index is now above the 2% threshold and will stay elevated for the remainder of the year. The FOMC believes that rise in prices is transitory and not permanent and will continue to leave interest rates unchanged. Locally, vaccine rollout has been bolstered by increased supplies of vaccines and walk in station for people aged 50+, which means the economy is likely to begin recovery sooner rather than later. However, the recent the lockdown does threaten the expected economic growth and could have long lasting impact if it stretches for too long. On the political front, the ruling party has made progress in their stance against corruption by successfully suspending the General Secretary, however the focus will now shift on how they respond to the former President Jacob Zuma's sentence by the Constitutional Court. The President has announced an increase to the max threshold for self-generation electricity projects from 1MW to 100MW. This will create less dependability on Eskom and businesses will be able to continue operations during load shedding. Continued execution in this regard by the President, should start to lift foreign and business confidence and hopefully translate to future fixed investment into the economy.
